Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. 2 Corinthians 5:17

But note that in this prayer (Ps 119:66) the petition is backed up with a plea, "for I have believed in Thy commandments.". "Believed" is not merely an intellectual assent, but approved with the affections. Only when that is the case is such a petition sincere. There is an inseparable connection between these two things. Where God's commandments are loved by us, we can count upon Him to teach us good judgment. From "Gleanings in the Godhead", by A.W. Pink
