Afternoon Service.....1:00 pm

Have you ever studied a portion of Scripture only to find yourself with more questions than answers at the end of your study? There is a portion in Matthew 27 dealing with opened graves and resurrected saints that does just that. While this matter is not narrated so fully as our curiosity would wish, we can learn several valuable lessons. Maybe one of the most important lessons is that Scripture is not given primarily to satisfy our curiosity.

Quotable: Be careful of your thoughts, they may become words at any moment.

Bible Memory -

This week's passage: John 14: 1-3 - Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.

Moses and the Red Sea

Nine-year-old Joey was asked by his mother what he had learned in Sunday School. "Well, Mom, our teacher told us how God sent Moses behind enemy lines on a rescue mission to lead the Israelites out of Egypt. When he got to the Red Sea, he had his army build a pontoon bridge and all the people walked across safely. Then, he radioed headquarters for reinforcements. They sent bombers to blow up the bridge and all the Israelites were saved."
"Now, Joey, is that really what your teacher taught you?" his mother asked.
"Well, no, Mom. But, if I told it the way the teacher did, you'd never believe it!"

*Why was Christ "despised and rejected of men?"
...because He insisted on the denial of self. This is on two principal points, namely, indulging and exalting of self. All fleshly lusts are to be unsparingly mortified, and self-righteousness is allowed no place in the gospel scheme.
This was unmistakably plain in our Lord's teaching: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me" (Mt 16:24).
Yet nothing is more contrary to the desires of the natural man, and Christ's insistence upon these terms of discipleship causes Him to be despised and rejected of men.*
