It seems to me that lately there is an unprecedented use of the word "unprecedented." We hear people say, "This is unprecedented weather," or we talk about an "unprecedented political situation." The fact of the matter is that very few things in this world are truly unprecedented. There may be things to which we have not given attention, but they are not unprecedented. This afternoon we will look at the importance of paying attention: Paying attention to the Past, Present, and Future. After all, "the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the nose bringeth forth blood" (Proverbs 30:33)."

Quotable: A person who is almost persuaded is still completely lost.

The Helpfulness of Christ ~

*During His sojourn on this earth, was He not ever ready to heal diseased bodies?
And do you think that He is now unwilling to minister to distressed souls?
Perish the thought. He was always at the disposal of the maimed, the blind, the palsied, yes, of the repellent leper too. He was ever prepared, uncomplainingly, to relieve suffering, though it cost Him something--"there went virtue out of him" (Lk 6: 19)--and though much unbelief was expressed by those He befriended.*
