The writer of the book of James is the half-brother of our Lord. He was the pastor of the first Church of Jerusalem. It can be said of him that he was an emanate first century Christian psychologist, because he teaches us the profound dynamics of the soul. He brings our thoughts and our emotions under the search light of God's Word. You can benefit greatly by this book.

Quotable: The kids who leave home one by one, will eventually return two by two.

Stephen Charnock defines God's patience in part: It is a part of the Divine goodness and mercy, yet differs from both. God being the greatest goodness, hath the greatest mildness; mildness is always the companion of true goodness, and the greater the goodness, the greater the mildness. Who so holy as Christ, and who so meek? God's slowness to anger is a branch of His mercy: "the Lord is full of compassion, slow to anger" (Ps. 145:8). It differs from mercy in the formal consideration of the subject: mercy respects the creature as miserable, patience respects the creature as criminal; pities him in his misery, patience bears with the sin which engendered the misery, and giving birth to more.
